

BANKSTOWN - CANTERBURY TORCH

THE ONLY LOCAL PAPER PRODUCED AND PRINTED IN THE AREA SINCE 1920

9795 0000 • www.torchpublishing.com.au • 10¢

91,541 Copies

• Wednesday, July 4, 2012 • Volume 93 • Issue 27

18 THE TORCH Wednesday, July 4, 2012

Magic at your table in 'little Italy'

By CINDY LYNCH

THE long, lost art of table-side and strolling magic has been resurrected by Anthony Di Mauro, one of the youngest professional magicians in Western Sydney.

Anthony performs every Saturday night for patrons and guests at La Piazza in Bankstown Sports after being spied by manager Mario Libertini on Mother's Day, doing his tricks for friends and family.

"After a short demonstration, Mario was intrigued and offered me a job," Anthony says.

With many unique tricks up his sleeve, he bewilders adults and children while they wait on their food, or as they're enjoying a coffee.

Performing table-side magic is still a foreign concept to most restaurants and cafés in Sydney, however, Anthony is set on changing that.

Anthony's commitment to his art has seen him invited to perform for high profile companies, including BMW, CSR and Sydney FC.

Combining traditional expertise with an infectious sense of humour, Anthony brings his audience into the exciting world of illusion and misdirection.

"I am hoping to go a long way with my magic and one day hope to perform at the Magic Castle in Hollywood and become a household name," he says.

To discover the magic, you can find Anthony on Saturday nights at La Piazza, or have him entertain at your next event.

For further info, give Anthony a call on 0424 132 520 or go to adimauro@live.com.au

Anthony Di Mauro has resurrected the long, lost art of table-side magic and is currently sharing his talents with patrons at La Piazza in Bankstown Sports Club on Saturday nights.
Photo by AMANDA SULLO.